

ETHAN SHANNON-CRAVEN

ASSOCIATE

Devarb

ethan.shannon-
craven@devarbitration.com
www.devarbitration.com

Ethan Shannon-Craven is a British LLB law graduate specialised in arbitration.

Work experience in arbitration

Ethan is an associate at Devarb, an arbitration boutique founded by Deva Villanúa.

Ethan is in charge of supporting national and international commercial and investment arbitral proceedings. These proceedings are administrated by the ICC, ICSID, PCA and Spanish and Latin American arbitral institutions.

Other professional associations

- International Chamber of Commerce Young Arbitration & ADR Forum (YAAF)
- London Court of International Arbitration Young International Arbitration Group (YIAG)
- International Centre for Dispute Resolution Young & International (Y&I)

Additional work experience

Ethan carried out his work experience at the Spanish energy company Repsol where he primarily gave legal advice to the natural gas trading unit of the business.

Prior to this, he also carried out work experience at the Spanish law firm Práctica Legal and the British Parliament. Before beginning his legal career, Ethan was the founding director of the software company DevOne Digital.

Education

LLB in Law and Spanish at the University of Bristol, United Kingdom.

During his university studies Ethan took part in various programmes offered by the University, as a result of which he was awarded the Bristol Plus Award and the Global Leadership Programme as well as, prior to his time at university, the Young Enterprise Award for the best business in the region.

Currently Ethan is finishing the Master's in International Advocacy with a transactional specialisation at Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, Spain.

Languages

English (native language); Spanish (bilingual).